Office of the Chief of Police This Is To Certify Patrolman Alex Dehoff Has Been Awarded an Official Departmental Citation for Lifesaving

On August 18, 2022, while working the midnight shift, you responded to a medical emergency at 833 Mechanic Ave regarding an unresponsive female not breathing.

Upon arrival, you found the female subject turning blue and suspected she had overdosed. You then administered a dose of Narcan, but the female subject remained not breathing and unresponsive. You then started CPR by administering chest compressions. After giving chest compressions, the female subject started to breathe shallow breaths. She stopped breathing again, and you continued to administer CPR until she started breathing again. The Ravenna FD arrived on the scene and began to treat the female subject until she regained consciousness. Eventually, she could walk out to the squad with assistance and was transported to UH for further treatment.

During this medical emergency, you showed great composure, compassion, and professionalism. On behalf of the Ravenna Police Department, you are now awarded the Ravenna Police Department Life Saving Award. Your bravery, professionalism, and devotion to duty are above reproach. This commitment to duty is held in the highest tradition of the Law Enforcement Profession.
